THE FISCAL YEAR that ended on August 31, 1955, was saddened by the deaths of two devoted members of the Board of Managers, Albert B. Dick, Jr. (October 24, 1954) and Clarence S. Woolman (May 26, 1955) and of Dr. Kellogg Speed, Consulting Surgeon, (July 2, 1955).

Dick had been on the Board since 1930. He had served as member and Chairman of the Committee on Research and Education, as member of the Investment Committee, as General Chairman of the Building Fund Campaign of 1950-51, and as friendly counselor to the Medical Staff as well as the Board on matters of hospital policy and practice. He knew the problems of the voluntary hospital in our American culture; he knew the Presbyterian Hospital, and was tireless and courageous in his efforts to promote its interests and those of the free society which had created it.

Woolman's service to the Hospital began with his election to the Board in 1944, and continued unabated to the day of his death. Like Dick he was a member of the Committee on Research and Education, and intelligently interested in its many-sided activities. But it was as Chairman of the Committee on Building and Future Plans that he made his greatest contribution. The extensive reconstruction of old facilities, the erection of Kidston House and of two new floors for Research, the building and furnishing of the magnificent new School of Nursing—all these were carried out under Woolman's experienced and wise guidance. He selected admirable architects and contractors, and then followed their work with intelligent care from the first preliminary sketches to the completed structure. And in planning for the future he showed that a concern about small details could combine effectively with broadly imaginative vision.

Dr. Speed was one of the senior members of the Staff, and for many years had brought distinction to the hospital through his clinical practice and research. Like Dick and Woolman he gave unstintingly of himself whenever the need for his help arose.

At the annual meeting on November 10, 1954, Mr. Albert B. Dick, III was elected a manager in the class of 1958, and the Reverend Herbert N. Brockway, D.D. a Clerical Manager to serve for four years.

In addition to these changes in personnel, the year has been marked by many significant developments. Progress on the Congress Street Highway, the completion of which will give us an almost ideal location, for a metropolitan hospital, has been slow, but much has been accomplished. The Medical Center Commission has continued its invaluable assistance in our acquisition of land for more parking lots. Our teaching program has been established on a new high level. The Committee structure of the Board, and the organization of the hospital under the Director, have been revised in general agreement with the Heller recommendations. The Controller's report shows a satisfactory year's experience, a fact which is due in considerable measure to our large endowment income, and to our practice of charging no depreciation on hospital buildings except those which are carried as parts of our endowment. Trends in admissions and in patient days of care have been better than for several years—which is doubly encouraging when one considers that access to the Hospital, by private automobile or public transportation, has been made unbelievably difficult by the work on the Congress Street Highway.

The most far-reaching episode of the year was the decision of the Managers to proceed at once with the erection of a new private pavilion, which would give us approximately 190 new beds, to increase proportionately the size of the laundry, and to construct an entirely new kitchen, cafeteria, lecture room and chapel.

To raise the money necessary for this development the Managers authorized a full-scale campaign for funds, and employed the American City Bureau as professional counsel. A Committee of Managers unanimously nominated Mr. Donald R. McLennan, Jr. for the Chairmanship of the Fund "Drive"; already he has effected an organization which will be actively at work before this report is presented.

It is no small task that the Hospital has thus set itself. To complete it successfully will require the whole-hearted support of the Board of Managers, of the entire Medical Staff, and of the many friends of the Hospital—support that will be expressed not alone in words or even in dollars, but primarily in the solicitation of gifts from the thousands of persons and corporations whose debt to the Hospital grows progressively greater with the passing of time. That this support will be forthcoming, no one who knows the mettle of Presbyterian Hospital men and women has any doubt.

The construction of this new pavilion will make possible certain greatly needed appointments to the Medical Staff—appointments that are now blocked by the lack of beds for new appointees. When this hurdle has been cleared, we can move steadily towards the goal of putting all our medical departments on the high level now occupied by the best.

The newly constituted Joint Medical Committee of the Board and the Staff should be the guiding influence in this task. A revision of the constitution of the Staff, eliminating contradictions and bringing the organization of the Staff in line with the best practice of today, will facilitate the solution of this the most important problem now confronting the Hospital. For in the last analysis the standing of a hospital is determined not by balance sheets or endowments or physical plant, but by the quality of its Staff. The new pavilion and its ancillary facilities will be worth but little unless their construction is accompanied by appropriate changes in and additions to the Staff.

I cannot conclude this brief report without a word of sincere thanks, on behalf of the Managers, to the officers and members of the Woman's Board and of the Medical Staff, and to the thousand-odd employees who compose the Director's organization. They have worked enthusiastically and successfully for the Hospital, and for the patients who year after year turn to us for healing. To each and all of this great Hospital Family, a hearty "Well-Done."

DIRECTOR'S REPORT

THE MEDICAL STAFF will look back on 1955 as the year in which they seldom saw the hospital director. The director will look back at the year as one in which he saw few people beside the architects (he spent most of his time in their office). The Board of Managers will think of the year as one of reorganization and many committee meetings. The personnel will recall it as the year in which new benefits developed for them. Salaries were raised; sick leave with pay was extended; an extra holiday was added. They also will remember it as a year of inconvenience because of the dirt and confusion resulting from the many construction and renovation projects here and there in the hospital. They took it in good stride, however. They know that you can't hope to improve the future without disturbing the present.

Plans for the new east pavilion progressed during the year and contracts for construction should be placed during the fall. The new addition embodies all that is new in modern hospital construction. It will set a standard for hospital facilities for the future. The hospital program includes 160 medical and surgical beds plus 32 beds on a neuropsychiatric floor. There will be a new X-ray Department with a deep therapy department, featuring a cobalt beam. Adjoining this will be a complete radio-isotope treatment unit. The new hospital will include a chapel with a capacity of 100, and a lecture room accommodating 225. This room will be equipped for televised operations from the operating suite. There will be a totally new kitchen and cafeteria.

During the year the committees of the Board of Managers were reorganized following, in general, the recommendations of the Heller Associates whose survey of the hospital was completed in 1953. In brief these are as follows: Executive, Investment, Nominating, Management & Business Affairs, House, Building And Future Plans, Nursing, Medical, and Public Relations.

The Heller Report also made suggestions for internal changes in the organization of the hospital. These were followed with some modifications. At present the organization lists four assistant directors; one in charge of general administration, one in charge of the physical plant, one in charge of out-patient services, and one in charge of financial matters with the title of Controller. This division of responsibility has, in large measure, freed the director of the details of the administration giving him more time to devote to planning and the broad policy matters affecting the day to day activities of the hospital. Our choice of assistant directors has been extremely fortunate and each is doing an outstanding job for the hospital.

A rather ambitious program of renovation was underway in the hospital during the entire year. Examples of these projects are:

1. Renovation of the doctors' examining rooms. In the process two small rooms were converted into a large emergency room. All the rooms were newly furnished.
2. A major renovation of the 4th floor of the Rawson Building for the Department of Medicine. This provides a conference-library room and office and laboratory facilities for the hematologist.
3. A stockroom area on the 5th floor of the Senn Building in the Department of Pathology was converted into an office and a laboratory.
4. Complete renovation of the lobby toilets and washrooms.

5. The installation of a Central Dictating System. Dictating phones placed in the operating suite are used to dictate operative notes. Dictating phones on each nursing station are used to dictate discharge summaries on all patients.

6. The construction of a temporary receiving office.

7. A major move of locker room areas in the basement to the old employees' cafeteria. This permitted the move of the purchasing, personnel, and nursing research offices to the east basement corridor. These rooms were decorated, including new asphalt tile flooring. The basement corridor was painted, completing the project.

8. The pavilion elevator and floor entrances were redecorated.

9. The Murdock Building elevators were lined with stainless steel and plastic.

10. A model techni-plan nursing station was installed in the Pediatric Department.

11. The director's suite was redecorated and refurnished.

12. A major project was the removal of the terra cotta cornices and the replacement of the brick structure of the 6th floor of the pavilion building. Glass block replaced the large glass windows in the operating rooms. This $175,000 project was largely completed by the end of the fiscal year.

13. The expanded laundry was near completion at the end of the fiscal year. This $290,000 project gives the hospital a laundry of sufficient size to take care of the expansion plans of the hospital.

14. A major renovation of the Lincoln Avenue Apartments was started during the year. This program will provide a completely redecorated and refurnished interior of these low cost rental apartments for our employees.

The financial picture was in the main satisfactory. A budget, which was prepared on the basis of a detailed salary and position study for the hospital, proved an invaluable guide for administration. Income exceeded expectations as a result of good occupancy and adherence to careful controls. Business office procedures were improved during the year resulting in more accurate and prompt billing but greater improvement can be expected. The pattern has been developed to assure this. One important device in this regard is the establishment of a new charge-a-plate system in the process of installation as this report is made. Addressograph stencils for each patient are made at the time of admission. They are used throughout the patient's stay to identify all requisitions for special services. This new installation required the development of completely new requisition forms for all service departments. This was a monumental task that was accomplished by our Administrative Assistant with the cooperation of the heads of the professional departments.

"Methods Improvement" is an expression that is being more frequently used in conferences and committee meetings at the hospital. The improvement and simplification of technics, the analysis of the way in which jobs are performed, has been given increased attention during the year. Only the surface has been scratched, but it is our intention to pursue this course of action diligently during the coming year.

During the year a great improvement has been made in the clarification of the financial reports to the Research & Education Committee. The Research & Education funds represent all those monies given to the hospital for research and education. The accounting of this fund is extremely complicated and in the past it has been difficult to report on it in a readily understandable form. This finally has been accomplished.

Gifts and bequests to the hospital have continued at a healthy rate, reflecting a continued interest in the work of the hospital in its many phases. The nature of its charitable activities, which are closely related to education and research, are recognized by many persons and foundations. It is this support which assures the continuation in philosophy, and in fact, of our great voluntary hospital. The Presbyterian Hospital is a tremendous expression of free enterprise. It is, in effect, a strong voice of all those who believe in the voluntary hospital system in the United States.

This is a report of an active and successful year. It was made possible because our work is an expression of service of people; the Board of Managers who gave freely of their time to direct our operations; the physicians on the staff who work as a team, and who as individuals are devoted to the care of the sick; and finally, our employees who work here not only because it is a job, but because it is a place that patients call friendly. Presbyterian Hospital personnel measure their work not alone in terms of getting it done, but doing so with kindness and consideration.

Director

MEDICAL STAFF REPORT

DR. KELLOGG SPEED died July 2, 1955. He had been a member of the hospital surgical staff since the end of the first World War. During this period he became one of the nation's leading authorities on diseases and injuries of the bones. He brought to the specialized field of the orthopedic surgeon the broader outlook of the general surgeon, upon which he built ably and well. He contributed many articles to literature in his field; and was a lucid and well remembered teacher to generations of undergraduate medical students.

Dr. Thomas D. Allen has left his post as Associate Attending Ophthalmologist and is now Consulting Ophthalmologist.

Dr. Hillier L. Baker has become Consulting Surgeon, from Attending Surgeon.

In the hospital's staff organization, the rank of Consultant signifies that the incumbent is relieved of fixed administrative and teaching obligations. He continues his staff privileges with regard to care of his own patients. In the past many Consultants have responded most generously to requests for continued teaching responsibilities. This will undoubtedly continue in the future. But such response is not considered a primary duty as is the case with all other staff appointments. It is usually made after special request of a department chairman to meet a special and temporary need.

Dr. William F. Mengert, who is the new Chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology in the University of Illinois Medical School, has been appointed Attending Obstetrician and Gynecologist on the Hospital staff.

Dr. Norman B. Roberg has been appointed Associate Attending Physician. Dr. Charles K. Wolfe has been appointed Assistant Attending Physician. Dr. A. Beaumont Johnson, II, has been appointed Assistant Attending Neurosurgeon. Drs. W. David Steed and John W. Hanni have been appointed Assistant Attending Neuropsychiatrists.

An interesting and potentially fruitful development in graduate medical training is being made this year by the Departments of Medicine and Surgery. Exchange of residents in these fields are being made in individual instances with homologous teaching services in the University of Illinois Research and Educational Hospital, State Tuberculosis Hospital and the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital. This is one of the advantages of a Medical Center situation and affiliation which should be an advantage to the medical services of the participating hospitals, and should also broaden the training of the residents concerned. If it is properly planned it will undoubtedly increase in future years.

In my last report I spent much time in explaining the vital role the new wing of the hospital plays in plans for development of the staff. The factor of time is important here if the vigor and enthusiasm of the new young department heads is to be sustained, and the need for strengthening the staff in new fields is met. The medical staff believes that when the present wasteland of Congress Street development has been civilized it should find the new hospital ready to serve the community.

FRANCIS H. STRAUS, M.D.
President, Attending Staff

M E D I C I N E

THE DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE has completed a year of growth and development. Several additions have been made to the Attending Staff, several physicians have joined our Dispensary Staff, and the Resident Staff in Medicine has increased. This has been a sound progression which gives us considerable strength in depth, not only numerically but also qualitatively.

The laboratories in the department have shown considerable expansion in their services to patients. We are now giving care to more patients, both as out-patients as well as those actually occupying hospital beds. Specialized services, previously unavailable in the hospital, have become regularly employed adjuncts to patient care.

There were 44,247 medical patient days last year, which means that during every one of the 365 twenty-four hour periods, there were over 120 medical patients being cared for by their Attending Physicians through the hospital's facilities. Patient care, which is the obvious primary goal of the hospital, has been increasing in its excellence through the continued growth of teamwork of Attending Staff, House Staff, Nursing Staff and laboratory units. The sense of security which this gives to patients is important and gratifying. This feeling of

"being at home" in the Presbyterian Hospital is a tradition we guard jealously for our patients as well as for ourselves.

The past year has seen additional growth in our effectiveness in teaching and research, the other two aims of the hospital. Undergraduate teaching in the Department of Medicine is conducted throughout the entire year, and the Attending Staff has given literally thousands of man hours to the instruction of medical students, both in the in-patient and out-patient departments. With the expansion of the Resident Staff in Medicine, it has been possible to assign residents to some of the areas of special interest that are essential to the continued development of the hospital. Again, this has been reflected in increased patient service and care but it also places an additional responsibility on the Attending Staff for instruction and guidance of these young physicians.

Clinical investigation continues its growth. Particular development has been seen in the past year in research in blood dyscrasias, cardiovascular disease, renal disease, and cancer control. Financial contributions to support these researches have been increasing in number and in generosity from both individuals and foundations. This continued search for the cause and treatment of human disease is the hallmark of an excellent progressive hospital.

Devotion to patient care through teaching, research, and conscientious hard work is the proud heritage of the Attending Staff in Medicine, which it continues to foster throughout each medical generation.

SURGERY

THE PAST YEAR in the Department of Surgery at Presbyterian Hospital has been challenging. We are acutely aware of our great surgical heritage and have been laying plans to make our surgical future greater than our past.

Our Operating Suite needs expansion and revision. The plans are being formulated and some of the work has begun. The windows in the operating rooms facing Congress Street have been replaced and the preliminary painting and refurbishing begun. Plans are being made to convert the ward in F Corridor as an addition to our Operating Suite when the new hospital beds are ready. A nursing shortage in operating room personnel has remained a problem, although the shortage is a little less acute than in the recent past. Nurses aids have been added as circulating nurses in the operating rooms since it has become obvious that the demand for nurses is greater than the supply. It is hoped that construction of expanded locker room facilities for nurses and house staff will be started soon.

A new room has been prepared and equipped to serve as a temporary Emergency Room in the first floor Examining Room. The room will have available at all times all necessary emergency equipment. However, this room will be replaced when an enlarged emergency area will be developed as part of the new hospital expansion.

Changes have been made in our Surgical Residency Program. Instead of accepting a relatively large number of first year residents and keeping a smaller number for four full years of surgical training, we shall now accept four new surgical residents each year and carry them through for four complete years of surgical training. This will improve the quality of first year surgical residents since none will have to be eliminated. An affiliation with the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital Surgical Residency Program was begun this year. The Veterans Administration Hospital residents will learn the surgery of women and children. In turn the operative material for the Presbyterian residents will be augmented by a rotation of Presbyterian Hospital surgical residents in their third year to the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital. A training program in Thoracic Surgery was inaugurated July 1, 1955. Residents who have completed their general surgical training who wish training in thoracic surgery will be accepted for 2½ years of training for rotation through the new Chicago State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Hines Veterans Administration Hospital, and Presbyterian Hospital. We have been very fortunate this year in being able to fill our residency positions with very promising young surgeons.

Dr. Bruce Taylor has been appointed

Director of Surgical Research and will work in both the Department of Surgery and the Department of Pathology. A comprehensive program of investigation into the major basic problems facing the surgeons of today has been begun. All members of the surgical house staff will spend at least one day a week carrying out research problems under the direction of Dr. Taylor.

In the past year Dr. Beaumont Johnson has joined the Presbyterian Hospital staff as Assistant Attending Surgeon in neurosurgery. Dr. William Shorey joined the staff as Assistant Attending Surgeon in general surgery and Dr. Steven Economou has been appointed Assistant Attending Surgeon, Out-patient Department, Central Free Dispensary. We welcome these additions of capable younger surgeons to our staff.

TEACHING

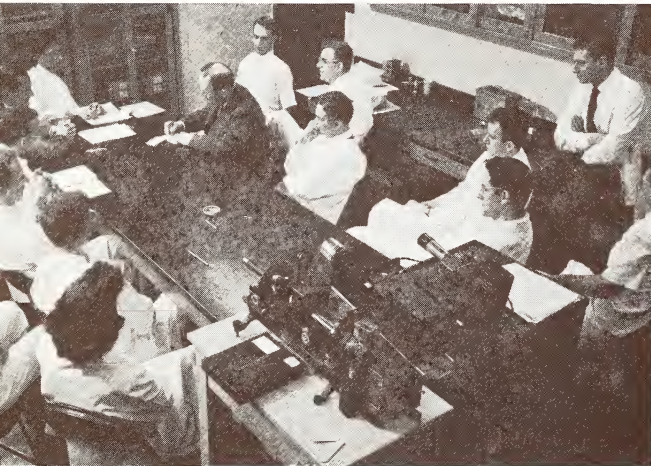

MEDICINE has long been recognized as a profession of continuous teaching and continuous learning. Although the styles and methods of teaching have varied since the hospital was founded, the basis of all good medical education: intensive and sympathetic study of the patient, remains the cornerstone of sound medical training. As a corollary, excellent patient care is fostered.

Each physician on the Attending Staff, since the founding of the hospital, has been a member of a medical school faculty. In this capacity, he has traditionally passed on to succeeding generations of medical students his knowledge of patients and their diseases. This has been done generously and faithfully, and many times at considerable personal sacrifice. Understanding of the patient as well as of his disease has been the guiding philosophy of the teachers at Presbyterian Hospital. The scientific aspects of medicine have been by no means neglected, but science without sympathy is bad practice. Everyone recognizes the rewards of teaching, for each teacher is himself taught in the process, and thus our inquisitiveness and thought are stimulated by the steady flow of students—undergraduates, interns, residents, fellows, and attending staff who are in daily contact with one another.

Presbyterian Hospital is an integral unit of the teaching program of the University of Illinois. Each day we are responsible for the instruction of 70 to 80 medical students in our wards, our laboratories, and our Dispensary. They are taught in every general and special field. This past year, a grant from the United States Public Health Service has made it possible to institute additional teaching of undergraduates in the field of psychiatry, making it possible for the Central Free Dispensary to add several technical personnel to its staff in the area of psychologic testing and psychiatric social service.

To fulfill our obligation to patient care as well as to graduate medical education, Presbyterian Hospital is vitally concerned with an extensive intern and resident training program. Among strong competition, with less than one candidate for every two internships, we did notably well last year. How we shall do in future years will in great measure depend on the effectiveness of our teaching programs. In order to assure the resident staff of progressive increasing responsibility for patients' care, as well as opportunity to see a large concentration of particular diseases such as tuberculosis, contagious diseases, and poliomyelitis, affiliations with other hospitals have been arranged so that broad and effective residency training programs are available in all the major specialties today. A vital strength in the teaching program are the opportunities which are available to the House Staff as well as the Attending Staff in the basic sciences. The laboratories continue to expand and to increase their effectiveness, making it possible for study of specific problems throughout the entire house-officership. The number of Attending Staff who are using the laboratories for their continued education has increased, and additional facilities have been made available this year to encourage further utilization of our teaching and learning opportunities.

As our hospital shares in the great strides taken by the Medical Center it is gratifying to note that our contributions to teaching and learning continue to be noteworthy in their excellence and extent.

RESEARCH

RESEARCH is part of the frame of mind, an important part, of the medical staff, administrative staff and Board of Managers. Doubtless, the friends of the hospital think about research and recognize its importance in the furtherance of the care of patients. For those who wish to provide money for research, for those who are charged with the responsibilities of allocation of research funds, there is a natural and desirable inclination to inquire into the worthwhileness of certain specified projects. How well can such an inquiry be carried out? What are the essential criteria?

In view of the fact that our national government, various societies and associations, corporations and foundations, are spending annually many millions of dollars on what is called research, it would seem that the criteria of worthwhileness would be clear cut, self-evident, or, at least, readily comprehensible to those people supervising the research funds. Up to a point, and in given circumstances, such as in business where many research projects bear on merchandising, the criteria are readily definable. However, when viewed generally in the history of science, the criteria become more nebulous, more elusive of definition. Edison, as an inventor, made many direct contributions to the welfare of man. Clerk Maxwell, a great mathematical physicist, made no immediately perceptible material contributions, but his theories have led and will continue to lead to the development, by others, of many contributions to the welfare of man. The interests, attitudes and inclinations of those two men were poles apart; what they did was done differently: but in both cases the consequences of their work were of great benefit to man.

The Craig Counter-current apparatus, completely automatic, is the latest research tool for the separation of the components of a biochemical mixture by multiple solvent extraction.

Edison and Maxwell had in common a rare talent which was impressive to those who were concerned with the beginning of their careers. The talent was expressed differently, but it was clear to those about them that each man had a way of doing things which was effective, rational, and unencumbered by preconceptions. Each man was intuitive, or inspired, but neither was preoccupied with his intuitions; on the contrary, the ideas submitted to the keenest intellectual discipline and hard work, with one eye averted, so to speak, to the unexpected. In short, they were renowned professional scientists.

Like professionals in other fields of human endeavor, the scientist has his general boundaries of intellectual and emotional interests, his ethics, and his recognizable talents, some of which have been indicated. The probability is high that allocation of funds to professional scientists will be more worthwhile, now or in the long run, than the support of amateurs or the support of research projects simply as projects.

Modern hospitals have professionals in many fields of activity, in the practice of medicine, in administration, and in science. Sometimes the professional outlines have been blurred; some doctors take over administrative responsibilities part-time, some go into the laboratory part-time, some scientists essay the practice of medicine part-time. The crossing of professional lines can be satisfactory, but most often neither the primary nor the secondary profession receives its full due. In that respect, some confusion is to be expected during the rapid development of medicine along scientific lines. It is not surprising that our hospital has had a few problems of that nature. Fortunately, the clarifying organization of administration, research and practice of medicine here has solved most of such problems. We can look forward to cooperation and mutual respect among the professions that staff our hospital, to the better practice of medicine: directly, in the examining and sick rooms, indirectly through research guided by professional scientists.

CENTRAL FREE DISPENSARY

DURING the past year the Central Free Dispensary, the Staff Clinic, the Doctors Examining Rooms and the Rush Medical Library have been placed under the direction of the Assistant Director in Charge of Out-patient Services to coordinate the functions of these services for improved patient care.

The function of the Central Free Dispensary is to provide scientific and humanitarian care of the medically indigent and to make available to doctors a choice of material for teaching and research.

During the past twelve months, patient visits to the twenty-eight departments totaled 62,685. The necessity for limiting intake in the General Medical Clinic has contributed to a small decrease in new patients during the present year compared with the years 1953-54.

Because of decrease in the medical staff in the Neurology Clinic, service in that department has been curtailed. Neuro-surgery patients and a limited number of epileptic cases are being treated, but no new appointments are being made for Neurology patients and the problem of providing continued care for the large number already registered in that department is urgently in need of solution.

New instruments and equipment in the Dental Department, made available by a voluntary contribution for that purpose, have added to the convenience of doctors and improvement of service to patients.

The teaching and research program of the Psychiatric Department has been strengthened by the addition of a full-time psychologist and half-time psychiatrist, who have been assigned to Presbyterian Hospital and the Dispensary by the University of Illinois. This was made possible by a grant from United States Public Health Service.

The assistance of volunteers, whose time is scheduled to relieve the pressure of work on the days and hours when most needed in the various departments, is particularly

examining rooms which were renovated
during the year*

helpful and appreciated. Eleven volunteers gave 1,412½ hours to this work during the past twelve months.

1,614 patients including, 1,294 adults and 320 children were referred from the Dispensary to the Presbyterian Hospital for bed care. Of this number 692 were maternity cases.

Cooperation of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation is acknowledged. Service of the Physical Therapy Mobile Unit, operated by the organization for homebound patients, plus funds and drugs supplied for treatment of arthritics has expanded service to Dispensary patients.

The continued interest and assistance of the Woman's Board, The Service Club, Blind Service Association, the Community Fund, and the John A. Hartford Foundation, Inc. and individuals who have for many years given financial assistance and encouragement in this work is greatly appreciated.

Plans are in progress for the development of a private diagnostic clinic to be known as the Benjamin Rush Clinic. This activity will absorb the Staff Clinic function in providing care to those individuals able to pay for hospital and medical care but who do not have a personal physician.

The Doctors Examining Rooms have been renovated and furnished with modern equipment and furniture. Two of these rooms have been converted into a much needed emergency room and is equipped to care for all types of emergencies.

1955 HAS been an extremely busy, and at times trying year for the Nursing Department; busy because of a continued high census particularly in the medical and surgical sections; trying because of the shortage of nursing personnel particularly during the summer months. Nevertheless, it has been a year of action and progress.

The Nursing Advisory Council adopted Rules and Regulations this year which will guide its functions more clearly. A Committee on Patient Care, composed of hospital and nursing administration personnel and the chief of Medicine and of Surgery, has focused understanding and working relations in common problems. A Methods Improvement Program has been started to bring equipment and procedures up to date and to simplify them wherever possible. The nursing personnel appreciates what has been done so far in easing some of the multiple details of their work.

Although the problem of staffing is not Presbyterian's alone, nevertheless maintaining a high quality of patient care is weakened by the continuing turnover of nursing personnel. Analysis shows that the highest percentage of resignations is due to marriage, pregnancies and moving out of the city. Of the 70 seniors who graduated in 1954, 75% of the members continued as graduate nurses, but a year later only 20% are still on the staff. Of the 87 graduating in the 1955 class, marriage has already claimed 31 of its members, and, on information to date, 40% of the class will continue as graduate nurses. We are happy for the few graduates from other schools throughout the country who join our staff. Lack of housing curtails the number who stay or can come. A maximum of six graduate nurses at one time from foreign countries has been here through the Student Foreign Exchange Program for six or twelve months' experience in the hospital. They have come from Australia, England, Iceland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Lebanon.

NURSING

No spring class was admitted, but 96 enrolled in the fall class—the maximum number who could be accommodated in the Nurses Residence. The recruitment program included announcements in "Presbyterian Life", in Presbyterian church bulletins and in local papers. Faculty members and students participated in college and high school recruitment programs and had conferences with some high school counselors. The school catalogue was completely revised and since it was received from the printers this spring 1515 copies have been distributed.

Organizations, class work, conventions and social functions have continued much as previously, but some of the new ventures include re-opening an affiliation with the Visiting Nurse Association, planning a new affiliation in psychiatric nursing, the students' publishing their second Year Book, granting students a whole day off for holidays, and classes for prospective parents taught by nurses in the Obstetrics Department.

The year has been one of intense activity. Deep appreciation is expressed for the faithfulness of those who stand by, for the many fine contributions of the Woman's Board, of the medical staff, and all departments who work so closely with nursing and for the vision of administration in working toward an ever better Presbyterian Hospital.

The Board of Managers

The Presbyterian Hospital of the City of Chicago

In our opinion the accompanying statement of assets, liabilities and funds, statement of General Fund receipts and expenditures, and statement of receipts and expenditures of the Building, Specific Purpose and Endowment Funds present fairly the financial position of The Presbyterian Hospital of the City of Chicago at August 31, 1955 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted institutional accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

IT IS WITH PLEASURE I submit the Annual Report of the Woman's Board covering operations for the newly established fiscal year September 1st, 1954 to August 31st, 1955. (While this report follows a chronological listing of events, the work of some committees extends beyond the specified month of activity. Some have exceeded former records in a most amazing way.)

October brought Tag Day, and November, Thanksgiving Teas which were given in urban and suburban areas. These current funds provide medical and nursing care for hospitalized children and premature babies respectively.

The Christmas Sale was held in two parts—one in Winnetka and one at the School of Nursing, where luncheon was served. Carson Pirie Scott decorated the hall and lounge most artistically and left the decorations for the nurses to enjoy through the holidays. Both Sales were under the auspices of the Gift Shop assisted by the Winnetka Auxiliary, Doctors' Wives, and a group from Oak Park and River Forest. The sales grossed $11,109.00.

In January the Associate Members' Committee enlisted Presbyterian women throughout the Presbytery who wished to participate by donating to the general work of the Woman's Board. During Lent the Child's Free Bed Committee contacted the Sunday Schools for support. The Child's Free Bed Endowment Fund was established at $100,000 this year. The interest on that Fund and current collections will be assigned to the Children's Department. Babies' Alumni collections are designated for maternity care as are those to the Memorial Fund.

Board Members' Fund and Contributors' Fund solicitations followed to support the general work which includes maintaining a Library with a full time librarian, assisting the Chaplain and the Social Service Department, providing expensive drugs for Dispensary patients, and helping support three clinics.

The Gift Shop also supports the general fund and extends its services throughout the year as do the many service committees.

The service committees provide immeasurable hours of assistance. The Needlework Committee furnished 1,759 articles for Social Service and the Children's Floor and 8,426 for the hospital linen room; the Coupon Committee redeemed coupons for 74 place settings of stainless steel and one dozen kitchen knives and collected $48.42 for the purchase of silver; the Delicacies Committee received 1,020 glasses of jelly and $233.75 as donations; the Children's Committee has supplied favors for holidays, craft materials, and a low table and eight chairs for one ward.

The Library Committee has continued to maintain its service to the patients, personnel, children, and maternity department. It has held successful used book sales and has been given an automatic page turner. This useful equipment for the immobile patient was donated by a volunteer.

While volunteers have decreased in number, they have served additional hours and have assisted twenty-one departments. In November at a tea given by the hospital ten volunteers were presented with corsages in recognition of ten years of service.

Besides its usual disbursements for reference books for the Nurses' Library, for the Chorus, etc., the School of Nursing Committee ordered twelve dozen cups and tea plates, purchased new porch furniture, had a drift wood arrangement designed for the entrance hall, and made six awards of $100 each to outstanding members of the graduating class. In June sixty members of the Chorus were entertained at a swimming party and buffet in the country. Three nurses who will go into the mission field received scholarships from the Woman's Board.

The Social Service Committee held a Christmas party for elderly ambulatory clinic patients and maintained a gift cupboard for indigent patients. Special appliances, ambulance fees and convalescent care were also provided. Camp fees and clothing were furnished for 46 children of the 101 who were sent by the Social Service Department upon recommendation from the doctors.

The Constitution and By-Laws were revised to align them with the new fiscal year and to provide for other operating needs.

The Devotion, Finance, Historical, Membership, and Publicity Committees have worked consistently as have the able officers, to promote the work of this large Board.

The Day of Design Benefit was an extra activity this year. It was an all day affair held at Marshall Field and Company on March 30th. Mr. Meyric Rogers of the Art Institute was master of ceremonies. Lectures in the morning by Miss Dorothy Liebes and Mr. Michael Higgins were repeated in the afternoon before an audience of three hundred in the Wedgwood Room. Luncheon was served for 600 in the Narcissus Room, and was followed by a showing of fine fashions. To add to the decor small tables arranged around the fountain had been artistically set up by members of the Board and friends of the hospital. The "Day" netted $14,175.82 for the Woman's Board and the Doctors' Wives.

Mrs. Russell C. Hanselman, Chairman of the Doctors' Wives, reports there are seventy active members. Besides assisting with the Benefit they participated in the Christmas Sale raising money at the now famous Bake Sale. A number of them serve as volunteers in the Gift Shop and Clinic.

Mrs. Oglesby Paul, Chairman of the Winnetka Auxiliary, reports a very successful dessert luncheon on May 10th, which benefited the Barbara Ann Smith Memorial and the Premature Fund.

On July 11th a preview luncheon was held which included the Oak Park Work Group to exhibit articles and exchange suggestions for the Christmas Sale.

Our net receipts were $74,006.75. While our major gift was $25,000.00 toward the new building, we also disbursed $51,100.29 to the hospital and School of Nursing for projects we support on an annual basis.

It has been an ineffable privilege to serve this Board. I wish to express my deep appreciation to the Board of Managers, the Administration, the doctors and nurses as well as every member of the Woman's Board who has helped me execute our work.

THE HOSPITAL'S NEED

During the next year Presbyterian Hospital enters a new phase of intensive growth with construction of the East Pavilion which will provide seriously needed beds. Again the hospital must look to its friends and supporters for the fulfillment of this great need.

The Director's Report stated: "The new addition embodies all that is new in modern hospital construction. It will set a standard for hospital facilities for the future. The hospital program includes 160 medical and surgical beds plus 32 beds on a neuro-psychiatric floor. There will be a new X-ray Department with a deep therapy department, featuring a cobalt beam. Adjoining this will be a complete radio-isotope treatment unit. The new hospital will include a chapel with a capacity of 100, and a lecture room accommodating 225. This room will be equipped for televised operations from the operating suite. There will be a totally new kitchen and cafeteria."

You who read this believe in the Presbyterian Hospital and in the voluntary system of hospital and medical care of which Presbyterian is a distinguished unit. The Director or the President of the Board of Managers will be glad to consult with you about tax-free gifts.

The corporate name of the hospital, for use in wills, is The Presbyterian Hospital of the City of Chicago.
